Wolf Road Made Political Issue

The famous Wolf Road matter which has been agitating Mokena for several years, is being made a campaign issue by the Democrats.

Attorney Francis Loughran, the Democratic candidate for state's attorney of Will County has publicly declared himself in favor of straightening the Wolf Road and has expressed his attitude of readiness, eagerness and anxiousness to give to the people of Mokena and vicinity his efforts to bring about this accomplishment.

Prohibition is another subject on which Mr. Loughran has made a definite stand. He has unhesitatingly condemned and criticized Prohibition which, he declares, has robbed the people of their personal rights and their personal privileges. He points

An article on Box Elder Bugs.

There has been a request for the above by many of the citizens.

BOX ELDER BUG

Although it feeds on plants only, and primarily on box elder, this bug is known mainly as a fall house pest owing to the fact that if the infected tree is near enough masses of the bugs in search of winter quarters are apt to invade the dwellings and become great nuisance there.

Remedy for Box Elder Bug: Spray trees as soon as the insects appear with soap solution. For summer spraying, dissolve pound of the soap in 3 to 4 gallons of water. For winter spraying on scale insects, dissolve 2 pounds of soap in each gallon of water over fire and apply before solution is cold. Also in the fall great masses of them can be destroyed by pouring hot water or kerosene on them or by sweeping them into a vessel containing kerosene.

P. S. The flower show was discussed at the club business meeting. Mrs. Ralph Coler, flower show chairman, will investigate cost, etc. at Chicago headquarters and report at next meeting.

New Lenox Pumping Station Burns

The McIntosh subdivision south of New Lenox which was just about to enjoy a city water service lost out on this convenience last Friday night when the newly completed pump house, electric motor and automatic devices, were destroyed by fire during the night due presumably to a short circuit in the motor. The New Lenox telephone operator saw the fire and called the manager of the central plant of the McIntosh subdivision. He did not know of the fire before and was much surprised.

A new motor was installed by house and a temporary pump supply is in operation, much to the relief of the McIntosh residents who have been obliged to carry water in pails from adjoining farms. The fire loss was placed at about $800.

Four inch water mains were laid in the sub-division when it was first laid out and a well was drilled and a water tank installed but when this proved inadequate, a new well was drilled the past summer to assure a

Error In Dates Brings Extra Pay

When the committee on claims of the Mokena village board checked over the bills at their meeting Tuesday night, it was disclosed that thru an error in dates the village had to pay a special policeman for three nights instead of two. He was engaged to maintain order on Halloween, but thru error in dates some of the aldermen thought Halloween fell on October 30th instead of the 31st, so they engaged the special man for October 29th and 30th. Later they learned that Halloween fell on the 31st day of October so they had to hire the special man for the extra night. Mayor J. C. Nielsen had insisted that Halloween fell on October 31st but some of the aldermen thought otherwise.

This comedy of errors caused discussion during the course of which alderman Richard Hensel took pains to pan The News-Bulletin for publishing the name of the special officer, saying the name should have been suppressed so that the youngsters bent on mischief would not know who was watching them.

The board meetings are public and the public has a right to know what transpires at these meetings and The News-Bulletin believes that the deliberations of the village council should be published in detail to let the citizens know what their servants are doing. This paper will publish all the proceedings of the board every month and if any village officials want to keep things quiet, they had better hold star chamber sessions under lock and key, for whatever transpires at a public meeting is going to be published.

$10,000 Fire at Tinley Park; Origin Unknown

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the six room two story frame building occupied by the Sanford family in the Elmore subdivision north west of Tinley Park last Saturday night.

The family had left for Chicago about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. About 5 o'clock one of the neighbors saw the building was afire and gave the alarm. The fire siren blew and the Tinley Park Volunteer Fire Department immediately responded with their fire truck.

When the doors were forced open the interior of the house was filled with smoke. The fire seemed to be between the walls. A heavy stream of water was soon drenching the building until 6 inches of water stood in the basement.

All of the furniture was removed and placed outdoors. About 6:30 there were no further signs of fire and no spark could be found anywhere where the furniture was taken back into the building and the Department members returned to their homes. Half an hour later they were again summoned to the same place and upon arrival, found the structure a roaring mass of flames. After very hard work the fire was finally extinguished but the building was a total wreck and all its contents were destroyed.

Early Sunday morning the fire Department was again called out to the same place. A spark among the ruins had burst into flames once more, but this time the flames were quickly put out.

The Sanford family came home about 11 o'clock Saturday night and were greatly shocked to find their home in ruins.

A diamond stick pin, a revolver and some coins were found in the ruins Sunday morning. The loss of buildings and contents is estimated at $10,000. The loss of the building is estimated at $8,000 covered by insurance. The furniture loss is placed at $2000 covered by insurance.

Duties of States' Attorney Outlined by McCabe

A large enthusiastic and appreciative audience assembled at an early hour Monday night for the Republican meeting at the Frankfort hall.

Precinct committeeman, attorney A. H. Krusemark presided as chairman and in his introduction of candidates emphasized his interest in the success of the entire Republican ticket and there was a sincere response to the evident earnestness of his appeal.

The county candidates were introduced as they came and went from and to other meetings and all seemed to be at their best in the final wind-up of the strenuous campaign.

Rep. John L. Walker held the audience in rapt attention as he outlined the political situation and for the moment forgetting the importance of his own candidacy, indulged in a glowing tribute to the Hon. Len Small, candidate for governor. He was heartily applauded.

Attorney Wm. McCabe, Republican candidate for state's attorney gave an illuminating outline of the requirements of the office he seeks.

Mr. McCabe is a veteran newspaper man, beginning his newspaper work on the Morris Post and then worked for Milwaukee papers. In 1905 his mother located in Joliet at 101 Buell Avenue, which has been her home since. In 1906 he was engaged on the Joliet Republican and continued on the Joliet newspapers thereafter. He worked with many of the older Joliet newspapermen, including Charles N. Wheeler, Charles Stevens, the late Robert F. McRoberts and Warren O. Hodgdon. He was an intimate friend of the late "Jim" Ferriss. From 1910 until 1914 he was the political editor of the Joliet Herald.

He became a candidate for the State Legislature in 1912 and was nominated in the primary and elected in November. He served six terms in the house. He was a member of the appropriation committee during five terms.

An outstanding achievement of his service at Springfield was the passage of the McCabe law providing for free school books for children attending the grade schools.

In 1923 he was elected mayor of Lockport where he rendered fine public service. His experience covers a field few men have enjoyed.

In 1923-1926 he owned and operated a 160 acre dairy farm in Homer township.

Don C. Hall of Mokena spoke briefly commending the various candidates for their staunch support of the entire Republican ticket. "Only through Republicanism can the principles of Democracy be maintained," he said in closing.

Entertainment was furnished by the Sunflower Quartet of Joliet and the 3 Aces, Carlos, Wanda and Alva Hall of Mokena, Hawaiian guitar trio

Ruth Brannon Speaks At Frankfort

The final windup of the present campaign in Frankfort township took place Wednesday afternoon when Miss Ruth Brannon of Manhattan, a forceful speaker for the Democratic party spoke at a women's meeting in the Frankfort hall. She was warmly received and made a peppy address.

TO THE EDITOR

For the information of those who have not identified themselves with the activities of the "Back to Prosperity Len Small for Governor Club" of which Don C. Hall is President and William Semmler is Secretary, and whose organization was recognized, sanctioned and commended by Hon. Len Small, candidate for Governor and Judge Fred R. Adams, County Chairman and that there may be no attempt to discredit it the club membership because of their reactions to the various candidates, I wish to call attention to a matter of record, and in the interest of absolute harmony, a resolution introduced by myself and unanimously adopted by the club membership to the effect that "the pledge of our organization extend no further than that indicated in our title, and that as individuals we were at liberty to act and vote as we desired on the National ticket and for local candidates". Our purpose as a Club being solely in the interest of the State ticket, headed by Hon. Len Small, as candidate for Governor.

Personally I have labored consistently, constantly and effectively for the promotion of the possible election of Hon. Herbert Hoover as President on the National Republican ticket and for Hon. Len Small for Governor and other State candidates on the State ticket.

As for the local County ticket, I hope that I am possessed of sufficient knowledge to be enabled to split the ballot if I so desire, and should I do so, it is a matter of no concern and need not effect the conscience of any one who does not feel themselves possessed of similar qualifications.

A straight vote may be an intelligent vote, it can also be used as a resort for the ignorant.

WCFL Harvest Dance Nov. 5 To Big Affair

BY JIM FORSYTHE
(Radio Reporter, Station WCFL)

NOTE: Lieut. James Forsyth, the "Big City" Reporter of Radio Station WCFL, who tells you here of that station's forthcoming dance festival, to be held at the Chicago Coliseum on Saturday, November fifth, tells fascinating stories of Chicago (The Big City) over WCFL every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 8.45.

It will no doubt interest our readers to know that in the near future Lieut. Forsyth will entertain them with a program prepared especially for THE NEWS-BULLETIN and its readers. Be Sure and Watch for future announcements.—Editor.

HELLO—READER! LISTEN TO ME!

This is your "Big City" reporter, Jim Forsyth, speaking, and today I'm going to tickle your ears with some of the most rambunctious news for dance lovers that the dancing sons and daughters of the big city ever listened to! And believe you me—Chicago has learned to dance—it's a sure cure for the blues—the DEPRESSION blues!

Now if I were to whisper that Ben Bernie and his boys would play for Chicago's dancing feet, or Vincent Lopez, Jack Miles, Herb Carlin, Wayne King, or Carl Moore—Chicago (All Chicago) would be there with its feet on...and you know it!

If I let it out that Mark Fisher, Al Handler, Brenie Cummins, Clyde McCoy, Verne Buck, Hal Kemp, Charle Agnew, Pat Kennedy, Husk O'Hara or Don Pedro would be there, with his orchestra, methinks that even the most discriminating dancers of the "old town" would mark the date on their calendars and be among the first arrivals.

Now...how's your curiosity?...aroused?...well, here it is and I want you to "take it away"...it's NEWS!

They (the gents aforementioned) are ALL going to be there! And...that's not the eighth of it...either! Nossiree! Who else. You'd be spiffed if I told you (so I won't), but just a hunch for you, there'll be oodles of other celebrities, movie stars, stage stars, radio stars! And, you never can tell, maybe a few kings, queens, governors and aldermen.

Now you're asking me!...where, Oh where? I'm telling you! We of Radio Station WCFL have placed the world's largest order for WAX, and in no time at all we'll have a crew of the world's best wax spreaders waxing away slicking up the old dance floor down at the Chicago Coliseum as it's never been slicked up before!

And this is all for YOU who dance, of course, or will, this time and for your friends, relatives, and several thousand other folks whom you've never met before and never will meet again, under similar circumstances...unless WCFL throws another party for its fans.

That's what this is, reader, and WHAT a what! It is WCFL's "Harvest Benefit Dance Festival". We arranged it especially for those splendiferous folks who, like yourself, perhaps are regular WCFL fans who instinctively twirl the old black knob, to the "old reliable" 970 mark on the cern and need not effect the conscience of any one who does not feel themselves possessed of similar qualifications.

A straight vote may be an intelligent vote, it can also be used as a resort for the ignorant.

Signed: DON C. HALL

President Hoover To Be In Joliet This Morning

For the second time within a few weeks President Herbert Hoover is going to be in Will County and will stop at Joliet for five minutes. He is coming in over the Rock Island and is scheduled to arrive in Joliet at 10:30 a. m. Many people from this section are planning to go to Joliet to see and hear the president.

Mokena Board to Reduce Vehicle License to $3

The P. T. A. are having a bakery sale, Saturday, November 12 at the McGovney real estate office. No one can beat the Mokena ladies when it comes to baking as it is a finished art with them.

Tinley P. T. A. To Have Father's Nite

Daisies won't tell, but I will.
There's a trail a winding unto the "Fatherland" that will lead you to the Tinley Park School Auditorium when "father-time" says it's 7:45 o'clock, Friday, November 4th. Is here you will hear, see and do things. Everyone is "free" to take it, and here's hoping you all make it.

And here I am telling you again! if ever a WCFL program pleased your fancy, if ever a program was just a little more than a program...then this Harvest Dance Festival is going to be several thousand programs all rolled up into one!

My pal, poor Howard Koegan! WCFL's program director is ambling sleeplessly about with his head in his hands. It's all been a terrific strain on toward, you know and he's a little bit gaga. But every once in awhile as he comes out of a fit of jitters, smiling, he rolls his eyes, shakes the celebrities out of his Thespian locks and murmurs "What a program!"

Ya-Yah! That it is! And now here's a prescription, mark your calendar for Saturday, November fifth and show up at the Chicago Coliseum, Fourteenth Street at Wabash Avenue with the best dancing pal you can "show up" with...prepare (or have him prepare) to separate himself for just one buck (including tax)! then dance until the dawn.

Attorney Francis Loughran

out that Prohibition has overburdened the people with exorbitant taxation. It has caused farmers, men and women who are the very back bone of this nation to lose their farms. And it has caused persons in the cities to lose their homes, Mr. Loughran declares.

Mokena Fire Dept. To Be Re-organized

The matter of re-organizing the Mokena volunteer fire department was taken up at the meeting of the Mokena council Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Herman Schweser was present and said that the last meeting of the old fire department was held in 1928. When the department disbanded it had 8 paid up members. It was decided to re-organize the fire department with 25 men and all the board members agreed to enroll as members.

The board appointed Fire Chief Schweser as a committee of one to secure members for the new fire department. The dues are to be 10 cents a month. The 25 members are to be protected with a blanket personal injury insurance policy.

Fire Chief Schweser will report at the next board meeting the first Tuesday in December upon the results of his organization work.

A representative of the News-Bulletin offered the services of the paper in the re-organization of the fire department, but was informed the co-operation of The News-Bulletin was not needed. Somebody must be peeved.

CHILDREN'S STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT'S NEW HORNS

PETER RABBIT was puzzled. He stared at Lightfoot the Deer a wee bit suspiciously. Lightfoot had just shown Peter how very fierce he could appear when he wanted to, and now Peter had discovered what looked like bits of old fur hanging to Lightfoot's horns. "Have you been tearing somebody's coat?" he asked. He didn't like to think it of Lightfoot, of whom he always had thought as being quiet as gentle, harmless, and timid as himself. But what else could he think?

Lightfoot slowly shook his head. "No," said he, "I haven't torn anybody's coat."

"Then what are those rags hanging on your horns?" demanded Peter. Lightfoot chuckled. "They are what is left of the coverings of my new horns," he explained.

"What's that? What do you mean by new horns?" Peter was sitting up very straight with his eyes fixed on Lightfoot's horns as if he never had seen horns before.

"Just what I said," retorted Lightfoot. "What do you think of them? I think they are the finest horns I've ever had. When I get the rest of those rags off they will be as handsome a set of horns as ever grown in the Green Forest."

Lightfoot rubbed his horns against the trunk of a tree till some of the rags hanging to them dropped off.

Peter blinked very hard. He was trying to understand and he couldn't. Finally he said so. "What kind of a story are you trying to fill me up with?" he demanded indignantly. "Do you mean to tell me that those are not the horns that you have had as long as I've known you? How can anything hard like these horns grow? And if these are new ones, where are the old ones. The idea of trying to make me believe that horns grow just like plants. I've seen Bossy the Cow all summer and I know she has got the same horns she had last summer. New horns indeed!"

"You are quiet right, Peter, quite right, about Bossy the Cow. She never has new horns, but that isn't any reason why I shouldn't, is it?" replied Lightfoot patiently. "Her horns are quite different from mine. I have a new pair every year. You haven't seen me all summer, have you, Peter?"

"No, I don't remember that I have," replied Peter, trying very hard to remember when he had last seen Lightfoot.

"I know you haven't," retorted Lightfoot. "I know it because I have been hiding in a place you never visit."

"What have you been hiding for?" demanded Peter. "For my new horns to grow," replied Lightfoot. "When my new horns are growing I want to be away by myself. I don't like to be seen without horns or with half-grown ones. Besides, I am very uncomfortable while the new horns are growing and want to be alone."

Lightfoot spoke as if he really meant every word he said, but still Peter couldn't, he just couldn't believe that those wonderful great horns had grown out of Lightfoot's head in a single summer. "Where did you leave your old horns, and when did they come off?" he asked, and there was doubt in the very tone of his voice.

"What Have You Been Hiding For?" Demanded Peter.

"They dropped off very early last spring, but I don't remember just where," replied Lightfoot. "I was too glad to be rid of them to notice where they dropped. You see they were loose and uncomfortable and I hadn't any more use for them because I knew that my new ones would be bigger and better. I've got one more point on each than I had last year."

Lightfoot began once more to rub his horns against the tree to get off the queer rags hanging to them and to polish the points. Peter watched in silence for a few minutes. Then, all his suspicions returning, he said: "But you haven't told me anything about those rags hanging to your horns."

"And you haven't believed what I have already told you," retorted Lightfoot. "I don't like telling things to people who won't believe."

THE BEAUTY OF A GRIN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I HAVE seen a lot of people who were homely, in a way; some you couldn't hardly say. There was something wrong about them, as so frequently appears. Though they didn't have the beauty of Adonis and the rest. They'd another sort of beauty that was brotherhood expressed. For a lighthouse may be built, build nobly, build right. But to make the house a lighthouse it will have to show a light. And you neighbor wants a neighbor, not a walking photograph; They may talk about your beauty, but they want to see you Laugh.

first course or following the cocktail, seems to be universally liked, for the millions of cans of soup sold daily in the markets are proof that it is popular.

One may, with the addition of minced cooked vegetables, convert a canned soup into one that is individual. A little rice, a little asparagus, a few spoonfuls of peas added to bouillon or clear soups add to their attractiveness as well as flavor and nutrition.

Tomato soup is one of the canned soups that has a large repertoire as a food. It may be converted into a delicious meat or fish sauce in a turn of the hand. Poured over a meat loaf it transforms it into a delightful surprise. It may be added to the meat when making a loaf with the egg or cereal used as a binding omitted. Part of the soup is saved to serve as a sauce with the meat. More cayenne, a bit of onion juice, or garlic, a grating of nutmeg or of lemon peel, all adds variety to the tomato sauce.

One of the most delightful of rarebits is made with tomato and cheese. Use the canned tomato soup instead of the fruit, adding a beaten egg just before it is poured over the toasted bread or crackers.

UNDER FROZEN STARS

by GEORGE MARSH

CHAPTER I

"Smoke, old chum, there's something adrift out there to the south." Ears pricked, the massive black-and-white husky raised slant eyes to the speaker.

Jim Stuart watched a distant object, which regularly disappeared, to lift again on the white crest of the running seas.

"Acts like a filled canoe, Smoke. I'm going to get the glasses."

Crossing the clearing, where the grass grew thickly among the stumps, to the group of white-washed log buildings of the little fur post, he entered the tradelouse.

"Looks like a capsized canoe out there, Omar," Stuart said to the broad-backed figure seated cross-legged on the floor, shaping with a drawknife a slab of birch into a paddle.

The half-breed lifted a swart, square face, seamed with lines, his mouth widening to a grin, as he said: "Wal, w'at you do? Dis canoe? Come from Nor'-Wes' comp'nee; eet ees good t'ing, eh?"

"You're too blither, Omar," said the factor of Sunset House. "We can't let men drown before our eyes even if they are from LeBlond's."

Stuart took his service binoculars from the case and joined the dog who waited for him at the door. Crossing the clearing to the shore, he focused the glasses on the wind-harried lake. As he found the drifting object he sought, his lips moved in a muttered: "Man hanging to that boat! How long can he last?"

Jim started on a run for the tradelouse. "Come on, Omar! There's some one with that filled canoe. Come on! We'll take the paterboro!"

The lined face of the half-breed stiffened in a black frown. "We fill, too, out dere! Tough job—put de canoe into dat wind!"

Stuart laughed as he started for the shore, followed reluctantly by his man. "What! The best canoe man I ever saw—afraid of that water?" he taunted. "You sure hate that LeBlond outfit! But we'll show this fellow some paddling!"

Out into the welter of wind-driven seas went the plunging canoe. For a mile, the dogged "churn-swish, churn-swish" of maple blades fought the fury of the southwester. On they went for a space, then swung toward the submerged boat. The canoes were within short rifle shot of each other when Jim saw the dark head beside the submerged craft move as if to signal the approaching boat.

"He's all right!" panted Stuart. "He'll hang on! A boy!"

Rails awash, the filled canoe bore down on the laboring paterboro. As the rescuing boat worked closer a huge comber mounded over the wallowing craft burying the dark head beside it. Jim dug desperately with his paddle, fearful of what the lifting boat would reveal. But as the canoe rose he saw the head still there, with the arms circling a thwart.

"Good boy!" muttered the bowman. Closer crept the paterboro. Again the boat was drowned in a ridge of black water, topped with foam. Then, as the dark head appeared, the eyes of the toiling bowman widened in amazement.

"A girl!"

His paddle tore at the water. Over his shoulder he shouted: "It's a girl!"

It was dangerous work—edging the paterboro alongside a filled boat yawing in that sea. But Omar Bolsvert was a magician with a paddle, and did not hesitate. As they reached the canoe the half-drowned girl turned a face gray from exhaustion and the drenching of the seas, and her blue lips moved.

While Omar fought to hold his bow into the wind against the drag of the yawing canoe, Stuart worked desperately to get the limp body of the girl into the boat without rolling them under a lifting sea. At last, she was in the paterboro, and, as a ridge of water broke at the bow, they cleared the boat and headed for Sunset House.

"A white girl—from LeBlond's! Short hair, whipcord knickers—who can she be?" wondered Jim as his stiff arms drove his paddle. He glanced over his shoulder at the huddled figure of his drenched passenger covered by his coat. "Cold?" he shouted to the shivering girl. "Get down, out of the wind!"

She nodded, with a gallant attempt at a smile, as he encouraged: "Only a few minutes now!"

But two miles of running "white horses" separated the canoe, yawing in the following sea, from the post, and the kneeling paddler had his work cut out.

At length, leaping into the shoal water, Stuart eased the boat in to the beach at the post; then lifted the girl, blue with cold, from the boat.

"Can you walk?" he asked, conscious of the thickness of her drenched, crow-black hair. "Take my arm."

The girl's stiff legs, numb from exposure to water and wind, moved uncertainly. With a shrug she raised black eyes to the man who supported her, wondering if he dared pick her up and run to the warm kitchen of Omar's cabin. "I make you—much trouble," she replied through chattering teeth. "You take me—out of—that wet lake. Now you must—dry me."

At the door of her cabin the amazed Marthe, wife of Omar, met them with wide and disapproving eyes. Jim Stuart with a short-haired girl wearing a man's coat, a man's trousers, a man's high laced boots! A costume for women unknown in Kiwedin.

"W'at—w'at you do, Meester Jeem?" she feebly gasped, overwhelmed with embarrassment.

"She's been in the lake, Marthe," explained Stuart. "She upset and drifted across from LeBlond's. Needs hot soup and a fire—quick! I'll rustle dry clothes for you, Miss—Miss—"

With a flash of white teeth the girl laughed: "Oh, didn't you guess? I'm Aureole LeBlond!"

Jim Stuart was startled. The blood showed in his tanned cheeks as he replied: "No, I didn't know." Then he said: "Marthe will take care of you, Miss LeBlond. Get those wet clothes off and dry out. My cook will have some supper for you shortly."

LeBlond's daughter, at Sunset House! Impossible to get her back across that lake until the wind died! What a situation! What would LeBlond, his rival and enemy, do? He'd saved the life of LeBlond's girl. It was a huge joke on the free-trader. Now what would he do?

As the girl followed the Ojibwa woman into the log house, she turned in the doorway and called to Stuart: "Merci, monsieur, oh very many thanks for saving me from a watery grave!" With a laugh she disappeared.

"Well, Omar, she's surely a cool one! Half frozen in those clammy clothes, she stops to make fun of our breaking our backs to reach her before she let go that canoe. Gratitude, eh—and nerve?"

"Ah-hah!" grunted the half-breed. "Louis LeBlond, he ees lak dat. He don't care for nobodee. How you get her home?"

"Get her back—against this wind? She'll have to stay till it drops."

With a grunt Omar stopped in his tracks, his face black with disapproval. "You know w'at dat mean?"

"I know. He'll make a fuss, no doubt, but there's no help for it. She can sleep in my quarters with old Sarah. I'll stay with you."

"We breeng her back to LeBlond's een de morn' an' we have trouble. You don't know dat feller."

"No, I don't suppose I do, Omar. But I know that he's putting us out of business, and that will mean all our work here is lost. No, I don't know LeBlond, but he'll know me before I quit."

The squat Sarah, the Scotch-Ojibwa who presided over Jim Stuart's kitchen, was in a ferment of irritation, as she bustled about her stove. She had seen the canoe land and watched Stuart, followed by Omar, lead what she imagined a half-drowned boy to the cabin. Then, to her astonishment and wrath, Stuart had appeared to announce that this girl in men's clothes—this shameless daughter of his rival across the lake, was to be fed.

With her fire well started and the kettles on, the outraged Sarah had lost no time in shuffling over to the rear entrance of Omar's cabin for a whispered council of war with the equally indignant Marthe. Yes, it was true what Sarah had seen. Short hair and men's breeches! No Ojibwa woman would bring shame to her sex by shearing her hair, and as for the "gibodiegwason"—the breeches? Marthe's rolling eyes and hunched shoulders eloquently portrayed her thoughts. But then, some white women are mad!

With much wagging of dark, braided heads the women parted.

Jim Stuart's knock at the door of Omar's cabin brought the reply: "Coming!"

Shortly the door opened and the daughter of the man who was rapidly driving him out of the fur trade at Mitawangagama—Ojibwa for the Lake of the Sand Beaches—stood in dry woolen blouse caught at the neck by a scarf of crimson silk, and whipcords; on her stockinged feet a pair of the begrudging Marthe's beaded moccasins.

"You're warm again—no chill?" he asked, poignantly aware of the picture she made in the frame of the door.

"Yes, my heroic rescuer," she began archly, "and now Monsieur Sourface, that I'm warm and dry again and look less like a drowned fish, do you not like me better?"

The fluttering of her black hair in the wind; the allure of her thick-lashed eyes; the clean lines of her build held the appraising sweep of Stuart's gaze, as she posed, hands on hips, free of all self-consciousness, watching him in frank amusement.

"No, Miss LeBlond," he replied in mock gravity, "I think I prefer you as a 'drowned fish.' You were then more respectful to your 'heroic rescuer.'"

"But my hair was plastered with water and my eyes red," she objected, vehemently. "See it now—how it waves when it's dry!"

"Yes, it's very—nice!" he replied, aghast at her amazing candor, as he walked beside her toward his quarters. So this was the new girl, the younger generation! He had not been "outside," down to the railroad and civilization, since his discharge from the army on his return from France. But in the stray papers and magazines, which had reached him in the hinterlands of Kiwedin, he had read of the manners and dress of the younger generation. The frankness of this "specimen," however, was startling.

He said, "Now, you haven't told me how you happened to paddle that canoe out from your shore past the lee of the islands. You see what a risk you took?"

"Oh, I was tired of listening to that fool, Paul Paradis," she explained, "and it wasn't rough inside the islands. But, outside, before I knew it, the wind caught me and I couldn't turn back. You know the rest."

"You had a close shave, Miss LeBlond," he said quietly, wondering at her seeming lack of gratitude for the battle two men had made with wind and sea for her life.

She turned impulsively, placing a hand on his arm, as her face sobered.

"You don't have to tell me that," she said, and the raillery left her brilliant eyes. "I died out there, today. I knew I couldn't last—hang on, much longer. . . . Then I saw you coming!"

He looked suspiciously at her dark face. Was she acting? But the straight gaze which met his betokened sincerity.

"I thought you didn't know," he said, lamely.

"Didn't know?" she cried, almost savagely. "You think me a fool?" Then, swiftly, her mood changed. "Ah, I will now make amends to my heroic deliverer from the raging waters of Mita—Mitawangagama—is that right?"

"The Lake of the Sand Beaches!" she laughed. "Sir, you have rescued a water-logged maid from the fishes! She will never forget your bravery—or your surprise at her whipcords! She thanks you with all the heart she has—left!" Aureole LeBlond bowed grotesquely, until her hair touched the long grass of the clearing.

He watched her in silence, with a quizzical smile, puzzled, wondering, half-charmed, partly repelled. "Let's see what Sarah has got for us," he suggested. "I'm hungry, aren't you?"

Modern Detective Not "Sleuth" of Old Times

When did detectives finally discard the black mustache? We observe that detective fiction, at least, with which the book market is flooded, has quite withdrawn from the black and scowling sleuth with his all too visible trappings of the chase. The truth is, it was the melodrama more markedly than the novel that so pictured the pursuers of the transgressor.

The best detectives, we learn, are those whom nobody suspects of "detecting." It is your mild-mannered man, often of fair hair and guileless eye, who leads the wicked, step by step, into the trap of the law. This "detecting" is a gift, bestowed for the good of mankind. Its possessor learns his powers little by little and is possessed by them. Combined of intuition and an uncanny suspicion, the ferreting sees its hypothesis grow into stern facts. Care Needed

The mistress of the house was explaining the household duties to the new maid.

"This," she said in awed tones, "is a very valuable Persian rug." She paused, and added: "I want you to be very careful when you clean it, as it is very old and has been in the family for many generations."

The new maid nodded understandingly.

"I can quite see that it's old, ma'am," she replied, "but I dare say we can make it last through the year if we're careful."

"Starved! She won't poison me, will she? Marthe's eyes snapped fire when she saw me in these." The girl lifted a shapely leg and curled her toes in the smoke-tanned moccasin, far too generous in size for her foot.

"You did startle them—in those," he laughed. "You rather startled me; I haven't been in Winnipeg since the war."

"You poor man!"

"No, I've lived in Winnipeg—and prefer this. Hello, Smoke!" Bursting from the spruce at the edge of the clearing where he had been hunting rabbits, Smoke loped up to the man and girl.

"What a handsome dog!" she cried. "Why, he's much larger than any of father's! Where did you get him?"

"He's a Hudson's Straits Ungava," said Jim, proudly.

"He's a raving beauty. The darling! Will he let me touch him? Most of father's!"

"Smoke, this is a friend of mine," said Jim. "Shake hands with her!"

With a red grin which bared his formidable tusks, the Ungava raised a hairy paw, which the girl took.

"Smoke," she said, with a laugh, as the dog's slant eyes watched his master's face, "You're not polite; you don't look at the lady when you shake hands."

"Like his master, he's embarrassed by beautiful ladies," said Jim, as they left the dog and entered the house.

"Is that why you prefer this life to Winnipeg—because of your shyness of the ladies? But you'll be lonely when this beautiful lady goes," she challenged.

Here indeed was no false modesty.

"What makes you think so?" he teased.

"Oh, every one is. But you're hardly polite. How nice and comfortable you are here!" she went on, her eyes moving from the chairs built of spruce and birch in the round, the caribou and bear-skin rugs, to walls bare except for moose-horn gun-rack and two shelves of books.

He reddened under his tan. "You're laughing at my humble quarters. They're not much like your father's place, are they?"

Ignoring his remark, she faced him with: "Why do you men hate each other? Can't you trade with the Indians without fighting?"

Stuart laughed at her frankness. "We haven't exactly got to fighting yet; but I admit he's making it pretty rough for me."

They sat down at the table and the square-built Sarah appeared, her copper skin red from cooking, a large pink bow bobbing bravely from her dusky braids. With a withering look at Jim's guest from her small eyes, she deposited a dish of steaming caribou stew, to be followed by broiled whitefish, hot biscuit, tea and wild strawberries.

"Dear me, but I'm hungry!" exclaimed the girl, as the outraged and inquisitive Ojibwa woman, hands on hips, boldly scrutinized her from bobbed hair to whipcord knickers—to gain a better view of which the cook coolly stepped back and circled her chair.

Then, aware of the exhaustive inspection from the rear by the fascinated and shocked Sarah, the girl rose and turned to the gasping cook: "Would you like to see my knickers?" she asked, wheeling on her toes. "You don't wear them, do you? You'd find them very comfortable."

Choking with confusion, the overwhelmed Sarah fled to the kitchen, while Stuart shook with laughter.

"You're too much for Sarah. She was certainly hypnotized by your gibodiegwason."

"My what?"

"Your gibodiegwason—your pan—whipcords!"

"Mon Dieu! Are they as awful as that?" she cried, overcome by the Ojibwa equivalent. "What did you call them? Gibo-di-what? No wonder Marthe and Sarah are shocked! Think of a woman wearing anything with such a name! Gibo-di—" and she broke into shouts of laughter.

"Gibodiegwason," he repeated.

"Gibo-di-eg-wason!" she faltered, breathlessly, "gibos, for short! Wait till they hear that in Winnipeg! They'll never wear 'em again!"

Stuart regarded his guest with unconcealed curiosity. Buried in the hinterlands since the war, he had had no contact with the new girl. But now, it appeared, he was being offered a rare opportunity for the study of the species.

"There won't be much left of me when Sarah and Marthe get their heads together, but you're not really shocked, Monsieur Stuart. With us, all women wear them for sport."

"No, indeed, I'm not shocked," he laughed, his eyes shifting from her dusky head to the well-shaped hand busy with her fork. "We saw lots of them in France. But I'm wondering just how your being here will strike your father. It's going to blow all night, Miss LeBlond, and I don't see how we can get you home."

"So you're worried over what Marthe and Sarah will think if you can't rid yourself of your guest, Mr. Stuart?" she suggested with a curl of a full red lip.

"I'm wondering how your father will take it. How will he like it when he learns that you've been here?"

She shrugged. "My father adores his unworthy daughter. He will love you for what you did this afternoon. The poor man must think I'm in the lake, now. He'll be insane with worry! Poor dad!"

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.
At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

Illustrations Drawn From Actual Photographs

Through deep snow drifts that blanketed Wolf Creek Pass, 10,800 feet above sea level in Colorado's Rockies, a great V-type snow plow doggedly pushed its way. A whirling rotary plow spouted clouds of snow, clearing the roadway. And soon, despite temperatures daily below zero, workers of Liberty Truck & Parts Co., of Denver, had opened the 15-mile road.

"We used Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and Conoco Gasoline exclusively in our Cletrac Tractors with wonderful results," wrote a Liberty official. "We had no difficulty starting our motors in the mornings."

There's a "cold test" to guide you in buying motor oil!

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is thoroughly dewaxed and circulates freely below zero. It makes Winter-starting easier. More important still, it saves your motor from terrific punishment during the starting period, when half of all motor wear occurs! Other oils drain away overnight. A "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and lubricates before your motor starts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can offer you this vital protection, for it is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. Let it protect your motor this Winter. . . . 30c a quart.

PET WILDCAT "LISTENS IN" ON TELEPHONE CALLS

A wildcat that not only knows what the telephone is for, but tries to answer it, is the prize possession of the John Beatty family of Alma, Cal.

The cat was found after its mother had been shot, when it was only ten days old and had just opened its eyes. The Beattys took it home and made a pet of it. The animal has become thoroughly tamed and is said to be unusually affectionate and gentle, but instead of meowing like a house cat, it utters a cry when pleased that is a combined bark and growl.

The cat's name is Arimida, and one of Arimida's chief diversions is to answer the telephone. When the telephone bell rings, Arimida leaps to the instrument and sits alongside, ready to "listen in" on the conversation.

LONG CALL BRINGS GOOD NEWS TO GRANDPARENTS

When a baby boy was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard G. Gould of Silver Spring, Md., Mr. Gould was anxious for his own father and mother to know, as soon as possible, of the arrival of their new grandson. The fact that the elder Mr. and Mrs. Gould live in Adelaide, Australia, only increased the desire of the young father to talk personally with his parents, whom he had not seen for a number of years. Accordingly, he put through a long distance call, and not only talked with his father and mother, but other members of the family as well took part in the conversation which sent congratulations half way around the earth.

Public Service Makes Interesting Report

The net consolidated income of the Public Service Company of North Illinois, the Public Service Subsidiary Corporation and the Waukegan Generating Company, for the three months ended September 30, 1932 amounted to $802,433, according to the quarterly financial statement of the company. Earnings for the quarter are equivalent to ninety cents per share on the 607,660 shares of common stock in the hands of the public.

In the quarterly bulletin mailed to stockholders with dividend checks this week, James Simpson, chairman, stated that neither the company nor the Subsidiary Corporation has any bank loans, nor has either of them any bond or debenture maturities prior to 1937 except $99,000 of Chicago Heights Gas Company Gold Bonds, due June 1, 1934.

Rate reductions, the report states, have produced the following results: During the twelve months ended September 30, 1932, the company received $730,900 less than it would have received at the rates effective during the corresponding period ended September 30, 1931; for the first nine months of 1932 the company received $572,900 less, and for the quarter ended September 30, 1932, $126,100 less, than for the respective corresponding periods of 1931. These reductions in rates during the twelve month's period ended September 30, 1932, amounted to $1.20 per common share of stock in the hands of the public.

During the first nine months of 1932, interest charges and taxes increased $313,500. However, economies in operating expenses during the same period amounted to $1,187,000 or a net saving of $1.44 per common share in the hands of the public.

These operating economies were accomplished in part by widespread economies which were put into effect before reductions in salaries or dividends were considered, and in part by reductions in the salaries of all officers and employees effective August 1, 1932. A continuous effort is being made to reduce all expenses of the company to as low a level as is consistent with good service.

For the months of July, August and September, 1932, the total kilowatt hours of electricity sold by the company in its territory decreased 12.9 per cent, compared with the same period of last year. A large part of this decrease was due to a reduction of 19.6 per cent in sales to large power customers. Residential use, on the other hand, increased 0.7 per cent.

During the months of July, August and September, 1932, the total terms of gas sold by the company in its territory increased 0.6 per cent, compared with the same period of last year.

Agricultural Income Drops 41 Per Cent

Data prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture show that the gross income of agriculture declined 41 per cent from 1928 to 1931, a drop of upward of one million dollars for the last mentioned year. No such record of loss is shown, however, by the great privately owned concerns that handle and deal in farm commodities as a business. Data compiled from reports and estimates of Standard Statistics, on the contrary, show that earnings available for dividends to common stockholders of companies handling dairy products were 42 per cent greater in 1931 than in 1928. At the same time earnings of tobacco companies increased 41 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that farmers received record low prices for what tobacco they were able to sell. Earnings of baking and flour milling concerns off only 2 per cent according to the same authority.

These figures may give some indication as to why there is so much opposition to farm price of agricultural commodities, the profits from the marketing of those commodities continue at high levels, which may be another reason, too, for the substantial development, in recent months, of farmer co-operative marketing.

THE MAN WE SHOULD RETAIN

Present Secretary of State Has Conducted That Office So That Depository Banks Have Paid More to State than His Salary—First One to Secure Interest

In this day when most of us are, through necessity, seeking ways to economize it is refreshing to know that at least one public official has managed his office so that money which was formerly withheld is now paid into the state treasury to such an extent that the total for four years is greater than his salary.

This man is William J. Stratton, present secretary of state, who is a candidate for re-election.

Ever since this office began to handle large amounts of money from automobile license fees the banks have complained about the vast amount of work required to clear through this office. At one time it is understood the banks even talked of charging for the work. Evidently Mr. Stratton did not feel so inclined for although this money remains in his hands but a short time, he arranged for the depository banks to pay interest on checking balances instead of being paid exchange for clearing the checks.

The man who can handle the business of his office so that interest returns to the state in sufficient amounts to pay his salary is worthy of retaining in the office. We are for William J. Stratton for secretary of state because he has proven his ability to economically handle the office.

Coal Gives the Telephone Its Voice— Anthracite Plays Part in Transmitter

SPECIAL TERMS ON THOR WASHERS FOR LIMITED TIME

A down payment of only $2.50 will put one of these new Thor electric washers in your home—at once. You can pay the balance "Little by Little"—only $4.10 a month. (Cash price is $69.50.) A big week's washing costs little more than $1—even while you are still paying for the machine. What a saving! And it's wonderfully easy to wash with a Thor. Agitator action rubs clothes clean, gently but firmly, without preliminary soaking. Your hands hardly touch the hot sudsy water. A Lovell wringer gets clothes ready for the line. Let us demonstrate how you can do an average week's washing in two short hours.

ALSO SPECIAL TERMS ON CONLON AND THOR IRONERS

If your ironing now takes six hours, you can cut it down to two hours—and sit down while you're doing it. Automatic ironers do a remarkable job of ironing—better than most people can do by hand—with shirts and fussy pieces as well as flat things. For a limited time you can buy either the Conlon ironer (pictured) or the Thor Ironer (same type) for only $2.50 down—only $4.10 a month. (Cash price on both models is $69.50.) Call us for a demonstration.

The Morning Cup and the Afternoon Glass

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

If your day is not really started until you've had your morning cup of hot coffee, you of all people will get the keenest pleasure from the revivifying effect of a tall glass of iced coffee on a hot afternoon. When the heat of the day has reduced you to feeling like a torn rag doll and you think you'll never be the same again, just sit yourself down to drink a glass of iced coffee and see how soon you'll feel like a human being again. You'll truly be amazed for there is nothing so refreshing and invigorating in warm weather as iced coffee.

And correctly made iced coffee is really such a simple matter. Since iced coffee is the real test of its flavor you must start with the best quality of coffee. And for you, the best coffee is the coffee you like best, no matter what it costs.

You will find by careful shopping that there are coffees on the market to suit your taste which have maintained the highest standards notwithstanding present extremely low prices. Then to get the maximum flavor from even the best quality coffee you must buy it freshly roasted and freshly and correctly ground for your method of making—coarse for pot, medium for percolator, and fine for drip. Your grocer should be able to grind your coffee exactly the way you want it. Remember that the flavor of coffee is correctly developed by grinding, not by cooking, so that by whatever method it is made, actual boiling or too long "perking" or cooking will destroy the delicate

The most serious handicap in the life of any person is defective vision.
Because on the eyes depend more responsibility for our progress in life than on any other faculty we possess.

The very fact that they are of such extreme importance and are so delicate in their nature, makes it imperative first of all that we give them the very best attention, and secondly that we consult only the most skilled specialist when they need attention.

Eye trouble in some instances are hereditary. In other cases they follow in the wake of abuse with too strenuous demands on them. In either event, if you are troubled in any way with defective vision, you owe it to yourself to consult a specialist before the trouble becomes acute.

A distinctive feature of their service is the stock of frames they carry on hand. In this assortment you are bound to find just the right sort of frames that will enhance the appearance, feel comfortable and render an efficient service. The prices are reasonable and this phase of their work will stand the most rigid tests, the same as their examinations.

WHAT PRICE CHANGE?

VOTE FOR A CHANGE
IF YOU ARE WILLING TO PAY THE PRICE

Let's get down to bread and butter facts!

Which political party presents a workable plan to defeat depression, put new life into industry, agriculture and commerce, restore your job and your income or wages with the least delay?

This is the real question you must decide when you vote next week.

If you answer this question calmly and with common sense, there is but one answer---

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY!

We know what Hoover's election will mean. He has put into active operation a definite and constructive program to defeat depression---a program that is producing actual results.

Herbert Hoover's election will put an end to doubt and hesitation. Under his leadership business and employment will increase and our progress toward normal conditions continue.

This is no time to experiment with unknown, untried schemes.

Should the Democrats win, nothing is more certain than that men and women of all walks of life will be compelled to mark time until the plans of the Democrats become known.

Five months will elapse after the election before the new administration assumes office.

That will be followed, undoubtedly, by a special session of Congress to give effect to the plans of the new administration.

Congress itself, slow and unwieldy, will be engaged for months in the task of legislation.

Not before the fall of 1933 can hesitancy and doubt concerning new policies be cleared away and progress resumed---assuming, of course, that the plans proposed by the Democrats and enacted by Congress are sound.

If you are out of a job or your income reduced, if you are a farmer or in any other business, can you wait that long for the sake of a change?

You have a tremendous stake in this election. It means your bread and butter. FORGET POLITICS!

What's closest to your heart? Your family, your business, tomorrow morning's breakfast, your pay check, a chance to work---YOU.

Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the wise and experienced leadership of Herbert Hoover.

Mark your ballot with a cross in the Republican Party circle.

STATEMENTS AND SUGGESTIONS AS TO PUBLIC MEASURES

Pursuant to Statute, the following statements and suggestions have been prepared relative to the substance of the various public measures which will be presented to the voters of Will County at the general election to be held November 8th, 1932.

ALBION F. DELANDER, County Clerk.

Statement and Suggestions on the Act Providing for An Issue of Bonds of the State of Illinois for the Relief of Indigent Persons and for the Redemption of Notes Issued in Anticipation of Taxes Levied for That Purpose

The Act providing for a bond issue of $20,000,000 is one of five Acts passed by the Fifty-seventh General Assembly at the third special session thereof in the program to provide immediate emergency relief to residents of the State of Illinois who by reason of UNEMPLOYMENT OR OTHERWISE WERE DESTITUTE AND IN NECESSITOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

This legislation made available immediately, moneys for unemployment and poor relief by issuing tax anticipation notes against a State property tax which was levied for this purpose. But in order to prevent the collection of this heavy property tax, the Act being submitted provides for the issuance of bonds of the State of Illinois, the proceeds from the bonds to be used for the payment of the tax anticipation notes. The Act provides further that these bonds shall be paid out of the counties' share of the motor fuel (gasoline) tax, each county to pay in the proportion in which it shared in the relief funds.

The money received from the sale of the tax anticipation notes has been spent. Funds to pay these notes can be obtained by either of two ways: (1) By a property tax upon all the taxable property of the State; or (2) By the proposed bond issue. A property tax will require at least 30 cents on each $100.00 assessed valuation, which will practically double the present State tax rate, and will be spread over the entire State. If the bond issue is approved there will be no property tax required to retire the anticipation notes issued to obtain money for unemployment relief. The anticipation notes will be paid with the proceeds of the bonds and the bonds will be paid from the counties' share of motor fuel tax. Each county will pay only in the proportion it shared in the relief funds. No deduction will be made from the share of a county which did not receive any of these funds.

This Act will not become a law unless it receives the affirmative votes of a majority of the voters who cast votes for members of the General Assembly at the election at which it is submitted.

The ballot to be used in submitting the question of the adoption of this Act by the electors of this State shall be printed separate and distinct from all other ballots used at the election and shall be substantially in the following form:

EMERGENCY RELIEF BALLOT

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of Illinois entitled "An Act to provide for an issue of bonds of the State of Illinois for the relief of indigent persons and for the redemption of notes issued in anticipation of taxes levied for that purpose," enacted by the Fifty-seventh General Assembly at the third special session thereof, which in substance authorizes the State to provide funds for the relief of residents who by reason of unemployment or otherwise are destitute and in necessitous circumstances and for the redemption and retirement of notes issued for such purposes and to contract a debt and issue $20,000,000 of serial bonds for such purpose, such bonds to bear interest at not to exceed six per cent; levies a tax sufficient to pay said interest as it accrues and to pay off said bonds within 20 years from issuance, but provides that such payments may be made from other sources of revenue and requires the moneys allotted to counties under the "Motor Fuel Tax Law" to be first used for the payment of the several counties' portion thereof and such direct tax to be omitted in any year in which sufficient money from other sources of revenue has been appropriated to meet such payments for such year; provides for publication and for submission to the People; makes the provisions for payment of such interest and bonds irrevocable and pledges faith of State to the making of such payments; go into full force and effect?	YES
	NO

Statement and Suggestions on the Act Proposing An Amendment to Section 11 of "An Act to Revise the Law With Relation to Banks and Banking," Approved June 23, 1919, As Amended

The purpose of this Act is to allow receivers of closed banks to borrow money, pledging the assets of such bank as security therefor, for facilitating liquidation, protecting or preserving the assets, expediting the making of distributions to depositors and other creditors, providing for the expenses of administration and liquidation, aiding in the reopening or reorganization of such bank or its merger or consolidation with another bank, or in the sale of its assets.

No money can be borrowed until approval of the Circuit Court of the county in which the bank is situated or the judge thereof in vacation is secured, after a hearing before said court or judge.

This Act will not become a law unless it receives the affirmative votes of a majority of the votes cast for and against the proposition at the election at which it is submitted.

The ballot to be used in submitting the question of the adoption of this Act by the electors of this State shall be printed in the first column of the ballot containing the names of candidates immediately following The Proposed Amendment of Section 2, Article XIV, of the Constitution of the State of Illinois, and shall be substantially in the following form:

AMENDMENT TO GENERAL BANKING ACT

Shall an Act to amend section 11 of "An Act to revise the law with relation to banks and banking," approved June 23, 1919, as amended, which in substance authorizes the receivers of closed banks after a hearing before a Circuit Court or judge and with the approval of such court or judge to borrow money and to pledge the assets of such banks as security therefor, be adopted?	YES
	NO

Statement and Suggestions on the Proposed Amendment to Section 2 of Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Illinois

This proposed amendment to the Constitution, popularly known as the "Gateway Amendment," if adopted, will give the General Assembly authority to submit amendments to not more than three articles of the Constitution at the same election, but also provides that amendments to the same article shall not be submitted to the People oftener than once in four years.

The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the voters on the ballot containing the names of candidates for office, as provided by section 15½ of "An Act to provide for the printing and distribution of ballots at public expense, and for the nomination of candidates for public offices, to regulate the manner of holding elections, and to enforce the secrecy of the ballot," approved June 22, 1891, as amended.

This amendment will be adopted and become a part of the Constitution, if a majority of all the electors voting at the election at which it is submitted shall vote for its adoption.

Said ballot shall be in the following form:

The proposed amendment of section 2, Article XIV, of the Constitution of the State of Illinois:

This amendment makes it easier to amend the Constitution of this State in this: It permits amendments to not more than three articles of the Constitution, instead of one, as at present, to be proposed at the same session of the General Assembly and submitted to the People for adoption or rejection, at the next general election of members of the General Assembly:

Delicious to Drink
... a Delight to Eat

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

FOR frosty desserts with which to cajole the fickle summer appetites of your family, coffee, the nation's favorite beverage, is a highly favored flavoring. Easy to make, these desserts win all when served right from the ice-box on a hot-and-bothered day.

And fresh coffee flavoring, delightful and economical, lifts the confection it graces from that cloying too-sweet taste which is so often the bane of many hot-weather desserts.

I say "fresh coffee flavoring" advisedly for staleness in coffee will be just as noticeable in a coffee-flavored mousse as it is in the beverage. Hence the simple rules for making good beverage coffee are equally important in the preparation of coffee for flavoring. First of all, the brand of coffee that suits your taste best should be freshly roasted, freshly ground, and brewed a very short time, not more than 8 to 10 minutes by any method—pot, percolator, or drip. The following recipe calls for clear, strong coffee. Remember that longer cooking makes bitter coffee. For stronger flavor, use more ground coffee. Double the amount of coffee you usually use for each cup of water—and you need not feel extravagant for these days there are excellent coffees on the market for as little as twenty cents a pound.

Café Mousse

1/4 tablespoon gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
1 1/2 cups strong coffee
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups cream, whipped
1 cup sugar

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Cook coffee and sugar together until syrupy. Beat eggs slightly and pour hot syrup over them. Cook in double boiler about 5 minutes. Add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Strain and cool. Add vanilla. Fold in cream. Turn into tray of refrigerator and let stand 4 or 5 hours, stirring occasionally.

Boys and Girls Have Special Interest In Chicago Stock Show

Boys and girls of rural America are looking forward to the climax of their many sectional and state contests and demonstrations which occurs in Chicago each year the week after Thanksgiving at the National Boys and Girls Club Congress.

Their congress will be held in connection with the world's largest live stock show, the International Live Stock Exposition, which will be in progress at the Chicago Stock Yards November 26 to December 3.

A thousand 4-H boys and girls from 43 states will take part this year. Exhibits will be on view from 45 states. The thousand picked boys and girls who will meet at the 1932 Club Congress will be state and district winners among the 950,000 farm boys and girls of America who are now occupied in some form of 4-H Club work. The contestants are between the ages of 10 and 20 years. These youngsters, like their elders, have everywhere been in keen but friendly rivalry in state and county fairs during the summer season to determine which of them has live stock, grain, or in the case of 4-H workers, demonstrations worthy of bringing to Chicago for the year's final proving ground of expert achievement in countless different spheres of agricultural work. Many of those taking part in the National Club Congress travel to Chicago on free trips donated by railroads, and industrial concerns related to agriculture that realize the sound insurance for the future of American farming which these bright eyed, accomplished youngsters represent.

One of the most spectacular events of the Exposition, featuring these young people, is the Junior Live Stock Feeding Contest, occurring on the opening day of the show, November 26. It is the largest competition of baby beeves, pigs and lambs of outstanding quality seen anywhere in the country. Most of the nominations are purple and blue ribbon winners of the past season's state, district and county fairs.

MONEY

AN electric refrigerator saves food every day. And food saved is money saved.

Meats and vegetables that are left over from meals can be safely stored away in your electric refrigerator . . . and served later in the week as delicious as ever. When you have extra milk and cream on hand, there's no danger of its souring over night. When markets feature low prices, you can buy foods in large quantities . . . keep them fresh for a long time. And so it goes. In countless ways an electric refrigerator saves and saves and saves. Nickels, dimes or quarters every day. These savings more than offset the cost of operation . . . they actually help you pay for the model you select. And all the time you are enjoying the priceless convenience of perfect, automatic refrigeration.

ABOUT THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Several outstanding facts about this Company probably are not as well understood as I think they should be.

(1) It is purely an operating company and is not owned or controlled by any other company. (2) The majority of its stockholders live right here—it is "home owned". (3) All of its officers and employees live here. (4) Its future is irrevocably dependent upon the growth and prosperity of northern Illinois.

How to Get Rid Of Boxelder Bugs

Perhaps this will be of interest to the people living in and around Mokena as many are wondering where boxelder bugs are coming from and what to do about them.

The boxelder bug (Ceptocoris trivittatus) altho it feeds on plants only and primarily on boxelder trees is known mainly as a fall house pest, owing to the fact that if the infected tree is near enough, masses of the bugs in search of winter quarters are likely to invade dwellings and become a general nuisance there, besides alarming the unwitting householder. It first came to notice some forty years ago in the far west, but has since spread pretty generally over the states west of the Mississippi and has recently been reported in states east of that river.

In late summer large numbers of bright red wingless or red-bordered darker winged bugs may be seen sucking the sap from the leaves and tender growth of the tree or, in the fall, masses of them wandering up and down the trunk of the tree and crawling up walls and into houses and all sorts of cracks and crevices in search of hibernating quarters.

The adult bugs emerge from hibernation about the time the boxelder buds open and lay their eggs usually in crevices of the bark of this favorite tree. The hatching young migrate to the foliage in great hordes, traveling up and down the trunk after these pass thru several molts maturity is reached and by fall great streams of bugs start on the march for winter shelter.

To get rid of these pests spray the trees as soon as they appear with fish oil soap or laundry soap, one pound of soap dissolved in 3 to 4 gallons of water. Kerosene emulsion may also be used. Two gallons of kerosene, half pound soap (1 quart soft soap), 1 gallon water. Dissolve soap in hot water and add kerosene stirring vigorously. When you are ready to use add 5 2-3 gallons of water to 1 gallon of above mixture.

In the fall great masses of them can be destroyed by pouring hot water or kerosene over them or by sweeping them into a vessel containing kerosene. This information was given by a U. S. Entomologist.

Freddie's Garage

A Complete Service

On Lincoln Highway at New Lenox, phone 27. Expert auto repairing, Standard Oil Products, tires, batteries, accessories and auto wrecker service.

No matter what the make or reputation of the new car may be, the years of service obtainable by the owner will depend upon the class of service it receives at the hands of the automobile mechanics. He will have it given a thorough inspection or overhauling at regular intervals.

This firm does all kinds of automobile repair and overhauling work. A big feature of their service is the wrecker service. A large and modern wrecker is kept busy to give immediate and efficient service no matter if it is to bring in a "stalled" car or pull out the most difficult wreck.

Every car must at some time undergo repairs. It is at this time that the auto mechanic establishes his reputation for service of merit. The shop force at Freddie's Garage of New Lenox is prepared to furnish any of the lines of general overhauling or specialized lines of work.

Dr. F. L. Blachly

Rectal Disease Specialist

has offices, room 201 D'Arcy Bldg., Joliet, phone 2-0191. All work performed in his office by non-surgical methods. In his office, Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday days and evenings.

The pain and suffering, both physical and mental, which accompany any rectal trouble should be enough to cause any one afflicted (no matter if former measures have failed) to seek immediately diagnosis and treatment from a specialist.

Dr. Blachly's charges for treatment are reasonable. The total cost is usually less than a surgeon's fee. Then, too, you have no hospital bills, operating room charges and other costs to pay.

Since you are not in bed while under treatment, you do not lose any time from your position, need not neglect your work.

Many people suffering with Piles and other Rectal Diseases are dragging along untreated because they dread an operation which requires a stay in the hospital and the use of ether, chloroform and other dangerous procedures. No one wants to undergo a dangerous operation and these rectal patients are no exceptions.

Many rectal disorders can be stopped in one treatment. Let Dr. Blachly of Joliet examine your case and explain to you personally how you can be helped. —Adv.

OPERATOR'S ALERTNESS SAVES FAMILY FROM FIRE

Due to the alertness of a night telephone operator at the Dundalk exchange in Baltimore, Mrs. Ellen Bolstad, whose sharp ears detected sounds of confusion and a faint cry of "Fire!" when she plugged in on the line to the home of Elmer T. Livingston, the lives of a family of six were saved recently. The telephone operator called out the police and fire engines, on the supposition they were needed.

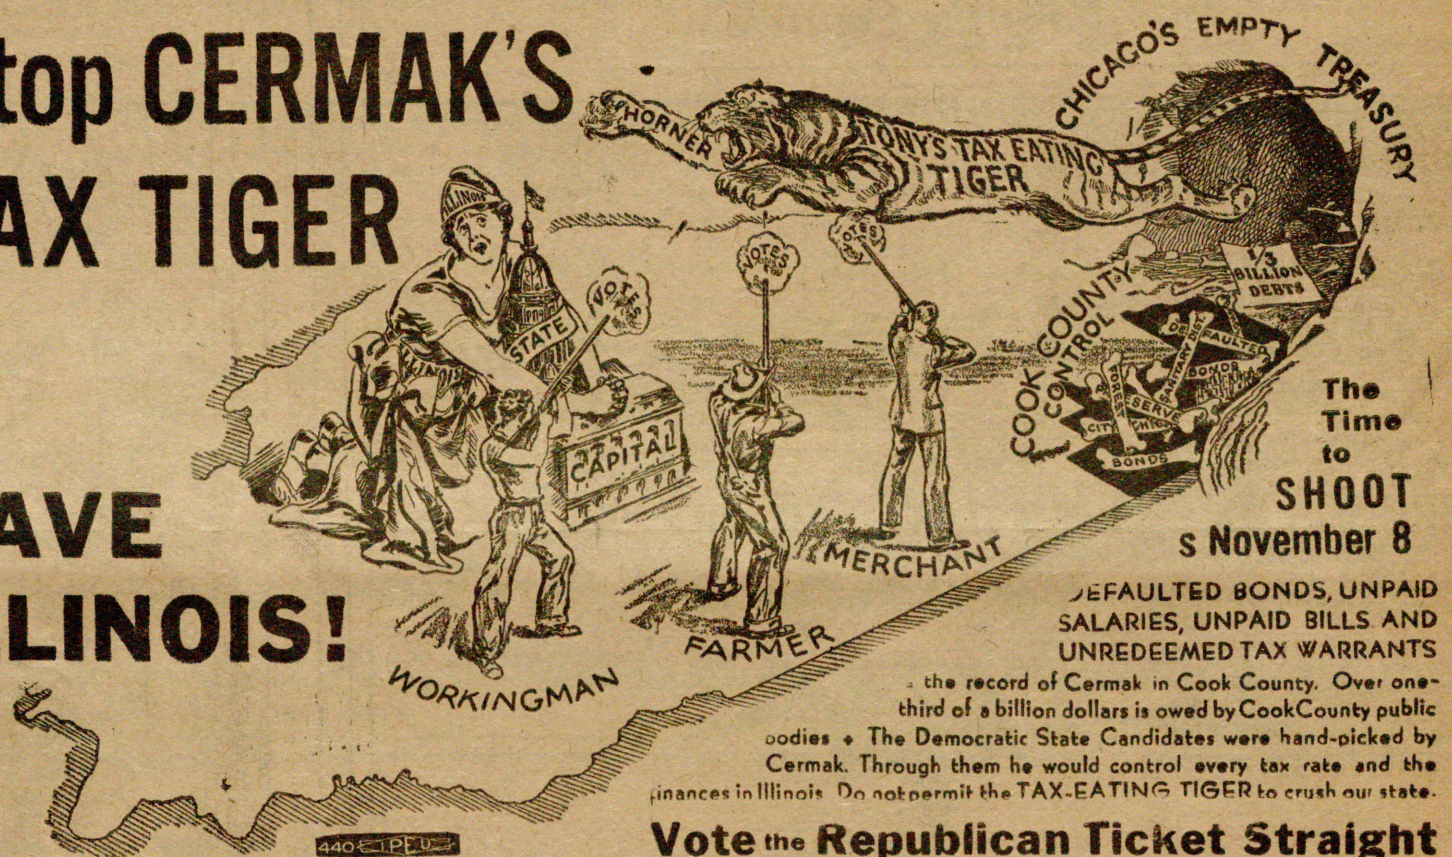

Later, it was discovered that the fire which broke out in the room where the telephone was located had burned away one leg of the table on which the instrument was standing. The table toppled over on the floor, and the receiver, thrown off its hook, gave the signal to listen in. Help reached the family just in time.

TELEPHONE LINEMAN SETS HIS OWN FRACTURED LEG

A telephone lineman at Centralia, Ill., Frank Shields, set his own broken leg the other day, and did a perfect job, owing to his familiarity with Bell System first aid training. Shields was fifteen miles from a physician at the time he fell and broke his leg. After he had put into practice the lesson which he had learned at the first aid school, and reduced the fracture, all that remained to be done when he arrived at the hospital was for the attendants to put him to bed.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson,
Illinois Press Association

The senate bill to divert the counties' 1-cent share of the 3-cent state gasoline tax for emergency relief has been passed by the house, the first of the proposed relief measures to obtain action by both chambers of the legislature now in session for relief action. Under this bill, counties would be authorized to use their portion of the gas tax relief until July 1, next.

Illinois cities of Fairfield, Jacksonville, Libertyville, Monticello, St. Charles and Urbana were allotted building projects from public building funds provided in the Garner-Wagner federal relief law.

Unless an unforeseen emergency occurs, the fourth special session of the Illinois general assembly stands adjourned until November 15. Perfunctory sessions will be held in the interim, but the membership will not return to Springfield until November 15 unless called together by the presiding officers of both branches.

Coincident with the awarding of contracts for the construction of the Illinois Host building to be erected by the state of Illinois at the Chicago Century of Progress, C. Herrick Hammond, state supervising architect, has announced that work will be started immediately. Mr. Hammond states that the total cost of the structure will be approximately $80,000.

There was an error of omission in the paragraph in last week's news letter quoting E. R. Amick, statistician for the department of public welfare, from a talk given before the annual congress of the American Prison association at Indianapolis, Ind. From 1910 to 1932 the felon population of Illinois increased 193 per cent. Had the general population of Illinois grown as fast, the Illinois census would exceed 16,000,000 and the United States would have a population of 270,370,870. Figures revealed by Mr. Amick show that prison population of the state has grown from 1 in 1832 to 10,239 in 1932.

In spite of threatening diphtheria and scarlet fever epidemics which threaten the health of persons in various Illinois localities, the population of the state in general faces the approach of winter with favorable health conditions prevailing, according to a statement issued by Dr. Andy Hall, director of the state department of public health.

But about 1 cent out of $5 paid in local and state taxes goes for the work done by the state department of public health, according to an analysis of the costs and activities of the department made recently. Work done or stimulated by the health department has prevented 4,000 to 5,000 cases of typhoid fever and 10,000 cases of diphtheria this year as well as control of and immunization against many other diseases, it is claimed.

The Gouverneur, the first deep water boat to pass through the Illinois river from Starved Rock to Lockport, made a stop at Morris. It is a Diesel-powered vessel 120 feet long and was slightly damaged by a sharp rock in a portion of the river not dredged.

Three Gary youths charged with the murder of Policeman Harold J. Koehnke of Dolton were found guilty by a jury before Judge John J. Sullivan in the Criminal court in Chicago, and given prison sentences ranging from 14 to 35 years. The stiffest penalty was imposed upon Tony Pickels, nineteen years old. He was sentenced to prison for 35 years. His brother, Peter Pickels, eighteen years old, got 14 years, and Frank Pimti, twenty-one years old, received 25 years.

A heavy wave of scarlet fever prevalence that promises to reach epidemic proportions by midwinter appears to be in the making in Illinois, according to a statement issued recently by the state department of public health. Case reports have jumped from about 60 to more than 160 per week within the last month and continuation of the upward trend until January or February may be expected if the disease runs true to form.

Building permits totaling 961 in September in 45 reporting cities of Illinois showed an increase of 7.3 per cent over the previous month in their estimated expenditure of $1,113,048, it has been reported by the division of statistics and research of the Illinois department of labor. While the total estimated expenditure dropped 23.3 per cent in Chicago during the month, there was a gain of 66.8 per cent in the cities outside the metropolitan area.

Minstrelsy

Minstrelsy is a name introduced into England by the Normans, and which comprehended singers and performers of instrumental music, together with jugglers, dancers and other persons. The negro minstrels are a species of musical entertainment of a quaint and simple kind, which originated among the negroes of the South, United States, and was first made popular at public entertainments by E. P. Christy, the originator of the troupes of imitation negro musicians.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 6

THE CHRISTIAN AND WORLD PEACE

Psalm 22:27, 28; Psalm 68:1-7; Psalm 72:8-19; Isaiah 2:1-4; Matthew 23:16-20; Ephesians 2:13-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Matthew 5:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peace and Good Will Among Men.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Part in Making World Peace.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Work for World Peace.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Duty to Promote World Peace.

The Scripture selections for today's lesson are vital, but in the settings given by the lesson committee will be decidedly misleading. World peace can only come through the appearing of the Prince of Peace, and the establishing of His Messianic kingdom. Clearness here is imperative.

I. The Lord, the Ruler of the Nations (Ps. 22:27, 28).

The present unhappy conditions in the world are a result of the failure of the nations to recognize Jesus Christ. As long as the peoples of the earth refuse allegiance to Jesus Christ and are swayed by the gods of their own creation and lust, there will be war and bloodshed.

II. How Gladness Is to Come to the Nations (Ps. 66:1-7).

This is to be realized by the assertion of divine power. When God arises

1. The enemies will be scattered (vv. 1, 2). They shall be put to flight before the Lord God Omnipotent. Two figures are used: Smoke dispelled by the blast, and wax melted by the heat. The wicked shall perish before the whirlwind and fire of divine power.

2. Happiness will prevail among the righteous (vv. 3-6). The rule of the Lord will bring rejoicing on the part of the people of God.

III. The Character of Christ's Reign (Ps. 72:1-19).

This Psalm describes the glorious reign of Christ upon the earth. It is that reign for which we pray when we say "Thy kingdom come."

1. It will be a reign of righteousness (vv. 1-4). Justice and equity shall be meted out to all.

2. It will be an unending reign (vv. 5-7).

3. It will be a universal kingdom (vv. 8-11). All kings shall fall down before him, and all nations shall serve him.

4. It will be a beneficent reign (vv. 12-14). Christ, the King, will have compassion upon the weak who are unable to help themselves.

5. It will be a prosperous kingdom (vv. 15-17). Full blessing shall then come to the earth. There will be no depression at that time.

IV. Israel's Spiritual and National Position (Isa. 2:1-4).

This scripture pictures the place of influence which shall be exercised by Israel in this time.

1. When shall it be? (v. 2). "In the last days." By last days is usually meant in Scripture, the times of the Messiah, for this is the primary subject of all prophecy.

2. What shall it be? (v. 2). The restoration of the kingdom of Judah to the place of pre-eminence among the nations of the world. This vision of Zion's glory refers to the millennium age, at which time other nations of the world will learn of the truth of God through the chosen nation.

3. The result (vv. 2-4). The return of God's favor to this chosen people shall be "life from the dead" to the nations of the earth (Rom. 11:15).

a. Nations shall flow unto it (v. 2). This pictures the masses of the people moving toward Jerusalem.

b. Nations shall encourage each other (v. 3). Jealousies will be forgotten and each will move to Jerusalem to be taught of God.

c. Peace in the earth (v. 4). When Israel shall be in her God-appointed place with Jesus Christ as King, wars will be over.

V. The King's Great Commission (Matt. 28:18-20).

1. The royal authority (v. 18).

By virtue of his divine authority he issues this commandment to the disciples and declares that all power in heaven and earth has been given unto him.

2. The commission itself (vv. 19, 20).

a. To teach all nations.

b. To baptize them in the name of the Triune God.

c. To teach them to observe all of Christ's commandments (v. 20).

3. The available power (v. 20). Those who obey Christ in carrying out this commission shall enjoy his abiding presence.

SOME WISE SAYINGS

Occasionally we run across a man who belongs to a D.D.

A mad race for wealth always brings on spiritual heart failure.

The rolling stone gathers no moss, but it picks up some experience.

The habit of anxiety has for its contrary the habit of prayer.—John A. Hutton.

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. W. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her."

"Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

Premium on Old Coins

Dependent on Rarity

How valuable are old coins? A study of the dealers' lists will surprise you, first by the smallness of the premium attached to most coins of venerable age, and second, by the small number of coins of modern issue that command any respectably sized premium at all.

The value of any coin, of course, depends not only upon its rarity, but upon its physical condition, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A bright uncirculated coin gets a topnotch price, and this value lessens progressively with the wear it undergoes, but if you do happen to have a rare coin of considerable age, don't clean it—for that automatically halves its value.

As regards the small value of some coins of great age, the dealers offer, for example, less than $1 in premium for a half-cent coined in 1794, or the large copper cent of 1800. And a silver dollar of 1794, or a large copper cent of the same year, commands a premium of only a few cents.

The only common coin of comparatively recent issuance that is quite valuable is the 1913 "Liberty Head" nickel. You can exchange it for a fine, complete outfit of clothes any time.

Another common coin of great value is the 1894 "S" mint silver dime, which is valued at several hundred dollars. The 1876 "CC" mint 20-cent piece can buy you a fair second-hand car.

Edison's Vivid Story

Almost Won Believers

Mr. Edison was keeping us alert (in his laboratory) by telling one good story after another. We were talking about mental concentration, and he brought up a remarkable instance from his own experience.

"You know," he said, "when I was a young fellow I used to be a telegraph operator. I was a pretty fast worker in those days; and to work real fast you gotta keep your mind on just what you're doin' and forgit everything else."

"Well, one night a number of messages came over the wire, and I received them as fast as they ticked in. All at once I hear the newsboys in the streets hollering an extra and a lot of commotion and excitement going on. I ran out to see what'd happened and I hear, 'President Lincoln assassinated!' I asked how they'd got the news. A man said: 'You d—n fool, didn't you just git the message yourself?'

"True enough, I had received the message a while earlier, but I had never got its meaning. My mind must have been glued pretty fast to my work for me to have missed the meaning of such a message!"

He had told the story so vividly that we believed it to be an actual experience.—M. A. Rosanoff in Harper's Magazine.

Parsonage and White House

According to the Christian Herald, during one-fourth of our nationhood there have been parsonage children presiding over the White House. Abigail Adams was the daughter of a Congregational minister. The wives of both Millard Fillmore and Franklin Pierce were parsonage born. James A. Garfield was an ordained minister. Grover Cleveland was the descendant of a long line of ministerial forbears. Mrs. Benjamin Harrison was the daughter of Rev. John W. Scott. Both Woodrow Wilson and his first wife were parsonage children. James Madison studied for the ministry in his youth. Chester A. Arthur was the son of a Baptist minister. Hula Minthorn Hoover was a Quaker preacher, while Lou Henry Hoover is the granddaughter of a Methodist minister.

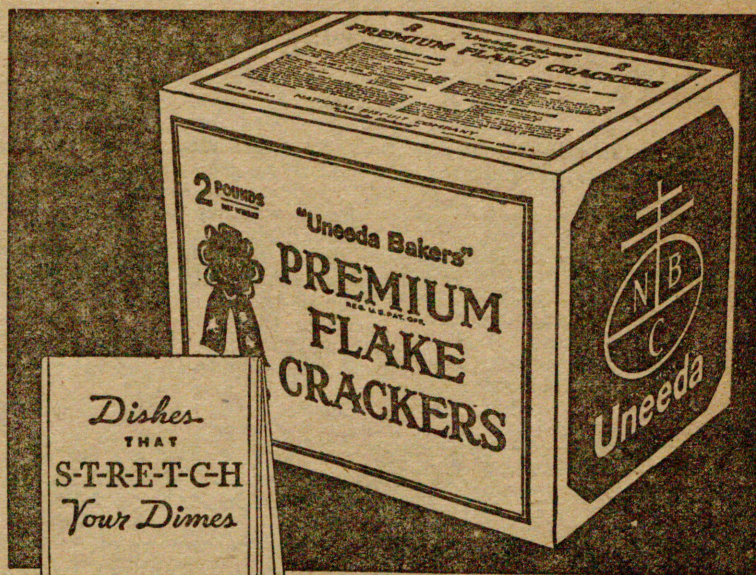

Ice Cream Patterns

Martha Louise's family had moved to an apartment that had an electric refrigerator. Her mother told her that when they went to grandma's they would get her receipt for making ice cream in the refrigerator. They had only arrived when she said:

"Grandma, we want some of your patterns for making ice cream."

In olden days medicine was so horrid in its taste that many set the bottle on the mantel and got well without it.

What a famous clinic discovered about this amazing Baby Food!

ORIGINATED 75 YEARS AGO
... NEVER SURPASSED IN DIGESTIBILITY ... EAGLE
BRAND NOW PROVED IDEAL
FOOD IN PHYSICIANS' TEST
WITH 50 BABIES.

WHEN Gail Borden originated Eagle Brand back in 1857, he did so because there was a crying need for a pure, safe milk for babies. No one knew then what we know now of food values. No thorough scientific research had as yet been made in infant feeding.

Yet, amazing though it seems, this baby food created by Gail Borden proved so remarkable in its nutritive value and in its digestibility that it has survived 75 years of revolutionary discoveries in nutrition—has raised three generations of splendid babies—and today, in as thorough a test as was ever given to a baby food, has proved itself unsurpassed in baby building!

Today, Eagle Brand is hailed as a most modern baby food—second to none in its scientific proof of performance.

How the test was made

Recently, two famous baby specialists conducted a feeding test with fifty average babies. For months, Eagle Brand was the only food these babies received, except for the supplementary foods* now given with mother's milk or any milk. X-rays were taken of their bones. Blood counts were made. Tooth development was watched. Heights, weights, strength were recorded. And all these records were compared with records of other groups fed on other baby foods.

At last came the verdict. In every way, the comparison was favorable to Eagle Brand. For those Eagle Brand babies showed themselves superbly nourished. This simple diet—Eagle Brand with the usual supplementary foods*—was wanting in nothing that a baby needs for health, growth. Your grocer has Eagle Brand. See directions on label.

*The usual supplementary foods, of course, are orange or tomato juice, and cod liver oil or other source of the anti-rachitic vitamin D.

Sixty hogsheads of mash and boot sheriff's deputies in a raid on a still

Friday afternoon.

A large boiler and a steam pump were demolished by the officials, 4

HOME BURNING, OPERATOR REMAINS AT SWITCHBOARD

Mrs. W. H. Hogan, night telephone operator at Louisville, Ga., was on switchboard duty when her house caught fire recently, and remained at the switchboard during the entire time her home was burning. When a relief operator arrived at the exchange after some time, Mrs. Hogan left, to find her home completely destroyed.

Upon being notified that her house was ablaze, Mrs. Hogan reported the fire to the fire department, and made request for help to her neighbors. She then continued her duty, maintaining the tradition that the switchboard should never be deserted. "I realized, when the telephone was burning, just how important it is that service should never be interrupted," said Mrs. Hogan.
"When neighbors told me over the wire that our home was in a full blaze and I felt that all was lost,
I wanted to go, but I felt that if I left the switchboard I would be deserting my duty, and I just stayed."

Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. The medal is awarded for saving the life of a fellow worker who was shocked and

Tinley Triangle Talkies

Sorry about missing last week folks. Just an error on the reporter's part. Will try and make up for it this week.

Had several hot basketball meetings last week. Wednesday evening a special appointed basketball committee met with the Triangle Club to decide whether or not this year's basketball should continue to be under the auspices of the Club or have the basketball players organize a league of their own. The meeting resulted in the agreement that the club will continue to sponsor it. But it is not compulsory for all players to join to be able to play.

However it will be to every players advantage if she or he does join for the small sum of 15c per month because then each one will have an equal say in basketball affairs. And by getting more members our club will thrive which will result in many gay social events, et cetera. So come on everybody be one of us!

Erna and Dorothy were both home with us last week end and it seemed mighty good to see both again.

Your reporter was down to Champaign last Sunday to visit Stan. He looks grand! (He lost 7 pounds he says) And he belongs to a keen frat.
The Phi Mu Delta.

Our Halloween party was a big success. There were at least 40 there and everybody seemed to be having a nice time. Larry just had a little mishap with his car; but accidents will happen.

There are several people, especially one, who will never really forgive "Boo-a" for his damaging words last Tuesday night. The girls thought the world and all of their last year's basketball coach and it was quite hard to lose him, just on account of one fellow.

Be seen' you all agin next week,
so stand by.

Buy across the Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay! You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you! And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.
